

I do not need some telemarketer calling me up at all hours of the day trying to sell me something that they have for sale...if I need anything I am very capable of going to any store and purchasing it, I do not need to be hounded by someone on the other end of a phone line who I have never of or care to here of, and then put me on the spot to buy something that I might be sorry later. Go peddle your good to some other country!
